

Scott Tumpak

Scott Tumpak currently serves as Director of Program Integration at EADS North America, Arlington, VA, the US operating division of EADS N.V., the world's second largest aerospace and defense company based in Germany, France, Spain and the United Kingdom. In this role, he is directly involved in ensuring performance and execution the full range of EADS North America's defense and homeland security programs, including a current focus on the KC-45A US Air Force Tanker program. Previously during his career at EADS North America, Mr. Tumpak served as Chief of Staff to the Chairman and CEO and as Director for Market Analysis on the strategy side.

Prior to this, Mr. Tumpak was an Associate at DFI Corporate Services (now the Avascent Group), a consulting firm focused on the defense and aerospace sector. During his three years at DFI, Mr. Tumpak led a variety of strategic, analytical and management consulting projects for major corporations in this sector.

Mr. Tumpak holds an A.B. in Politics and Economics from Occidental College, Los Angeles, CA and an M.A in Strategic Studies from the Johns Hopkins University School for Advanced International Studies in Washington. He has a longstanding interest in transatlantic relations, and in recent years, he has participated in both the Manfred Woerner Seminar and the Atlantik-Bruecke Young Leaders Conference.
